

Yes, this is our friend Bruce. He appears often in "Tales". He is a fearless sailing friend and a fellow who does not like to relinquish the helm once he has taken possession of it. When any other sailboat comes near, he becomes very aggressive and competitive, and if they are traveling in the same direction, like it or not, they are now in a race. In this photo, he is calling out to the other boat, taunting them, calling them "dogs." It did not matter that we did not know them.